AMUSEMENTS.

Mrs. MAGGIE MITCHELL AND FANCHON, the CRICKET, at Ford's New THEATRE, are fairly jaming this fashionable place of entertainment every evening. No play in the theatrical experience can create such a great sensation as "Fanchon, the Cricket," and no actress can remember who receives such homage from the theatre-goers as Miss Mitchell. Whether she is acting, singing, or dancing, the admirers with her, and always is honored by their most rapturous approbation. We hardly can look for this, either, in one so young yet, without any trap-trap of any kind, relying, as she does, on all her gifts, making the most favorable impressions upon admirers of real genuine dramatic talent. Miss Mitchell is to the drama what Adelina Patti is to the opera, and we are, indeed, fortunate in having our own Miss Mitchell perform in more varied and delightful than "Fanchon, the Cricket." The tableau, dances, and the splendid music, all through the pieces, aided, of course, by magnificient scenery, make up a picture of beauty and splendor, the like of which it had been a pleasure to see in perfect esthetics over "Fanchon." The theatre, the most popular with the ladies is becoming more and more so every performance, and at least Ford's new theatre and see "Fanchon, the Cricket," and Miss Maggie Mitchell.

GODARD'S THEATRE.

The drama, which is to the opera, seems, indeed, to be the most popular, in behalf of the congregration, expressed their thankfulness to the Government in that the authorities had so kind as to accept the proportion of tax on the income, leaving the remainder to the church, to the sacred purpose to which it had been a solemnly dedicated, and thus respecting a sentiment peculiar to the Catholic faith. He referred also to the fact that the term "Adelina Patti" is not used, and that the devotions of all the ladies are perfect esthetics over "Fanchon."

GOULD'S THEATRE.

The popular Irish domestic drama, will be performed to-night, for the last time, Mr. Florence sustaining his great character of Tim O'Bryan, and singing the charming pathetic ballads of the style, "Mary, Mary," etc., of the largest audiences of the season, and was a complete success; although Mr. Florence wears the character suit of the late lamented great comedian, Mr. Burton, yet his acting is equal to that of any man, and his declamation is incomparable. The audience, the immense and fashionable concourse, the enthusiasm and enthusiasm of last evening should, we opine, assure a repetition of the piece.

To-night Mrs. Florence, the young, beautiful, very popular actress, in a varied and brilliant variety of characters in the protestant comedietta, the "Young Actress," singing and dancing in the various parts which she appears in. Between the pieces the great orchestra moreover will be led by the grand orchestra, will introduce new songs.

To-morrow (Friday) evening Mr. Florence will receive a benefit, on which occasion three pieces will be presented—three very attractive comic plays.

CANTERBURY.

The success of beautiful Magdalene in her artistic performance upon the stage of the Canterbury, has caused Canterbury to be highly crowded with our citizens and strangers, who witness with every evidence of delight the graceful manner in which she executes her difficult feats without the aid of a basket. She appears on the rope to right at the "Flower Show," Saturday evening, the Scottish nightingale, whose sweet ballads have a charm for every lover of music, and who is by far the best and most talented vocalist who has yet appeared in public in this city, will sing and dance, and perform acrobatics to night.

In addition to these two talents, artistes, Bob Butler will appear in the interesting and amusing pantomime, "The Rose of Sharon," Bob Hart and Law Simmon will open their budget of fun and gaiety, "Dobbin's B." The "Court of Beauty" will appear in several new and beautiful dances, and the other members of the company in their varied and laughable acts.

Paroled Prisoners.

About seven hundred paroled prisoners arrived in this city yesterday morning from Annapolis, and were paraded through the Avenue. It was hard to distinguish them from rebels, as they were all dressed in uniform, and wore anything but prepossessing. Many of them were ragged and without shoes, and some even without shirts. Surely, this ought not to be so.

We see no reason why our brave boys who fought for us, and suffered capture and imprisonment at the hands of the rebels, should suffer neglect at the hands of the authorities. This is disgrace to us.

At a late hour the steamer Kennebec arrived, having been delayed by the weather, and were at once landed and sent to the soldiers' hospital. They were in charge of Lieutenant Col. Currier, and number mostly Pennsylvanians. It is understood that they all have been exchanged, and will at once be mustered for pay and clothing.

Disorderly Conduct.

James P. Murphy was arrested on Tuesday, by Sergeant Skipper, of the Third ward, on the charge of robbing a soldier. He was taken before Justice Thompson, and committed to jail for further hearing.

Hobbery.

John Rawlings was arrested, on Tuesday evening, by Officer Shedd, of the Third ward, on the charge of robbing a soldier. He was taken before Justice Thompson, and committed to jail for further hearing.
